

The Australian School Surfing Association (ASSA) competitions have been running for over 20 years with a high participation in each state of Australia. Many of Western Australia's most successful surfers, Taj Burrow, Jake Paterson, Melanie Redman-Carr and Claire Bevilacqua have gained valuable experience through these events and it seems certain that many more champions will follow.

Some of the aims of the Chill WA School Surfing Titles are to:

- Provide surfers and bodyboarders the opportunity to compete against their peers whilst representing their school.
- Provide a stepping stone for students to higher levels of competition after having completed learn to surf and advanced surfing courses.
- Promote surfing and bodyboarding within the school system.
- Continue the development of surf based activities for students.
